

LL.M. & LL.D. PROGRAMS

Overview

LL.M. Program

In 1994, the Graduate School of Law at Kyushu University established Japan's first Master's level program taught entirely in English: the LL.M. program.

Drawing upon faculty members with particular strengths in these fields of law, the LL.M. program is designed to provide both Japanese and international students with the ability to confront the many challenges of contemporary international economic affairs and commercial transactions.

Taught in English from a Japanese perspective, the LL.M. program seeks to develop a critical understanding of legal principles within the framework of transnational & comparative law.

LL.D. Program

The LL.D. Program offers students the unique opportunity of preparing a doctoral thesis in English whilst studying at a Japanese university. Participants will pursue a closely supervised program of research for 6 consecutive semesters (3 years) prior to submitting a final dissertation.

The program is designed to provide students with the skills necessary to complete high-level research in law.

The Graduate School of Law encourages applications from suitably qualified applications of all nationalities.

Proposals for doctoral research on any legal topic will be considered.

LL.M. Program Key Points

DURATION OF PROGRAM

The program is taught on a full time basis and takes 12 months for completion, beginning in October every year and ending in September of the following year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR COMPLETION & CURRICULUM

All program students are expected to complete a 20-credit (approx. five courses per semester) curriculum and write a Master's Thesis. Courses offered within the framework of the LL.M. program include:

- Algorithms and the Law
- Business Law in a Networked Age
- Comparative Corporate Law
- Contemporary Issues in Competition Law
- Creative Economy and Cultural Diversity
- Environmental and Energy Governance
- Fundamental Issues in Intellectual Property Laws
- Intellectual Property and Private International Law
- Intellectual Property Dispute Resolutions in International Matters
- International Financial Regulation
- International Law in Today's World
- International Relations & Global Governance
- Japanese Intellectual Property Law Practice
- Law and Development
- Mediation and Conflict Management
- Platforms and the Law
- Roman Law

- White Collar and Corporate Crime

"Having completed my Master in Laws studies at the Catholic University of Louvain (Belgium) in 1998, I felt that I was not ready yet to enter the world of work and wanted to continue another academic venture. In my search for an appropriate LLM course, Kyushu University came to my attention, and more particularly the course structure and module content which seemed to be wide enough in scope to gain a good understanding of the many challenges and opportunities in an ever changing international economic environment.

My decision to join the LLM in International and Economic Business Law at the Faculty of Law of the Kyushu University, is one I will never regret and which has opened many doors. Thanks to the combination of the internationality of the program and the high diversification of the colleague students in the class, the LLM in International and Economic Business Law gives you an excellent training in facing the difficulties that come with many international legal and other management positions one might pursue. Following my stay at Kyushu I started working as associate lawyer with Linklaters LLP in the mergers and acquisitions department. After six years with Linklaters, I joined Euronav NV, a world leader in the transportation of crude oil, as General Counsel of the group.

I wish all present and future participants all the best and hope they will enjoy the year at Kyudai!"

"Before studying in Kyushu University, I was a law-school student at Peking University. I learned about the LL.M program at Kyushu University by chance, but out of my deep curiosity about Japan, I applied for it and was luckily admitted to the program.

Since then, my wonderful journey in Japan began. The diverse & interesting courses taught by knowledgeable and insightful professors; the special lectures of distinguished scholars or governmental officials from the US, EU, or other Asian countries; the opportunities to organize and participate in global conferences; the chances to discuss, share different views, and make friends with classmates from all of the world; the occasions to learn the beautiful language & experience Japanese culture through interesting study trips; etc., all appealed to me a lot and made a difference in my life. All these made me decide to go beyond the one-year study in Kyushu University and pursue my LL.D there. My four-year study in Kyushu University is the biggest treasure in my life. It has not only enriched my knowledge in law, but also broadened my view of the world. Diversity was the biggest lesson for me!

I am currently working at Mori Hamada & Matsumoto law firm, which is one of the biggest law firms in Japan, and my work mainly focuses on foreign investments in China, M&A and other international matters. Interestingly, in a big M&A transaction, I happily worked with one of my Singaporean classmates, who also graduated from Kyushu University. The world may be big, but it also seemed so small! I miss and will always remember my professors, classmates and happy study times in Kyushu University!"

Why Fukuoka? Why Kyushu University?

Located in the heart of East Asia, midway between Tokyo, Shanghai and Seoul, Fukuoka is the largest city in Kyushu, the southernmost of Japan's four main islands. It is a thriving modern metropolis that has not sacrificed its unique local character and charm. Historically known as Hakata, it has long been one of Japan's key ports for commerce with the rest of Asia, and today the spirit of Hakata lives on, for the growing continental ties of recent years have enabled the city to establish itself as a major regional center.

In 2006, Newsweek named Fukuoka as one of the "Ten Most Dynamic Cities" in the world, identifying an energetic regional economy, excellent infrastructure, and the proximity and openness to Asia as key features behind its continued growth. In 2017, Monocle magazine reported a survey of world cities that ranked Fukuoka as the 14th most livable city in the world. Finally, Nomura Research Institute ranked Fukuoka second amongst 100 Japanese cities in 2017.

Kyushu University is the largest university in Kyushu and one of the most prestigious national universities in Japan. Founded in 1911 as one of seven original Imperial Universities, it continues to be a focal point for academic and educational excellence.

Graduate study in Kyushu University provides well-motivated students with the opportunity to study in a dynamic academic atmosphere and to enjoy life in one of Japan's fastest growing cities.

And yet, perhaps the most important feature of Fukuoka for the foreign resident is its people. Known throughout Japan for their friendliness, the people of Fukuoka have long enjoyed good relationships with visitors from abroad. For the foreigners living among Fukuoka's 1.6 million residents, life is both comfortable and stimulating.

New Campus, Facilities and Services

New Campus

The Graduate School of Law moved from its traditional location in Hakozaki to the new campus of Kyushu University in Ito in the summer of 2018. Further details on the new campus are available here:

<http://www.kyushu-u.ac.jp/en/campus/ito>

Library

The Law Library of Kyushu University houses one of the largest collections in Japan with over 310,000 volumes. It is particularly well known for its collection of international and foreign-language materials, and provides an excellent research resource for all graduate students.

Technology

Kyushu University provides wireless access throughout the campus. International students enrolled on a program at the Graduate School of Law are given access to the LL.M. Study Room, which contains a number of computers and network hubs for laptops. Students are also given access to an extensive selection of on-line databases containing both English and Japanese materials, including LEXIS/NEXIS & WESTLAW.

Health Care

All international students are obliged to join a national health insurance scheme. For a nominal monthly charge, 70% of health costs are covered by insurance. Students are free to choose their health care provider.

Student Supporters

All international students enrolled on a course in the Graduate School of Law will be provided with a Supporter to assist with various practical matters upon arriving in Japan.

International Student & Researcher Support Center

In 2009 Kyushu University established the International Student & Researcher Support Center (KUSC).

KUSC is responsible for providing a range of services for supporting incoming students and researchers from overseas.
